On Sunday January 18th President Obama gave a speech to tens of thousands gathered at the Lincoln Memorial.

The next morning both of our local Chicago papers ran headlines that warmed my heart because they featured one line out of the entire speech, one line full of hope, one line that is also my own personal philosophy and the whole theme of my Bubble Wonders show, "ANYTHING IS POSSIBLE!"

Email of the Month

"We attended your show at the Woodridge Library. We figured our son would love the show but had no idea of the powerful message that comes with it. Your ability to captivate the minds of the kids while sending them such an important message was amazing. We tell our son daily that "anything is possible" as long as you keep trying and that we should never give up.

Thank you for reinforcing that message in such a fun, exciting way for children to understand. Not only are they amazed by the show itself, but they see first hand what can happen if you just keep trying.

May you continue to live your dreams and have such an impact on so many while doing it! I know that we will always remember and refer to the square, white bubble in our house!!

Thanks Again,

Sue & Adrian Rocha & Michael"

IBM Ad Features Geoff's Bubbles!

Back in May, fellow Bubbleman and friend, Sterling Johnson, and I spent the entire day at a studio in Hollywood in order to make bubbles for an IBM photo shoot. Here's the results!

Quote of the Month

"Bubble Wonders was our most popular program of the year. Over a thousand students came to your three performances today. We'll probably have to book you for two days worth of shows next year!"
