Don't Cancel That Class Works for Faculty & Students!

Called away on business? Attending a conference? Family obligations? There is no need to cancel your class. The Office of Career Development is here to help! Given time, we may be able to customize the content of our presentation. Don't Cancel That Class presentations can be done with or without faculty present. All requests must be in writing and a 72 hour notice is required.

Career Development staff reserve the right to change or alter the suggested topic based on past presentation experience and the student's career development needs. Our expectation is that you prepare your class for a guest presenter prior to your absence by stressing the importance of the topic being discussed. Classes in which the faculty prepares the students run more smoothly and the students are more engaged in the presentation content.
