

Your turn! You have seen how the questions are constructed. Pretend you are the instructor. What questions would you ask? You can write them as a reply to this section & everyone in your group can see & discuss them. Part of learning to answer questions is attempting to predict what the questions will cover and how they might be worded? You will be employing this technique in upper level classes. Give it a try! You will learn from yours and other's experience in doing so. Good luck!
